Private markets rewired: What's next for AI? (Part 2)

In Part 2 of the Alternative Insight podcast, Private markets rewired: What's next for AI?, the conversation moves from experimentation to execution, focusing on what it takes to embed artificial intelligence (AI) responsibly across private markets organizations.

Aztec's Head of Process Digitization and Optimization Paul White is again joined by Adam Hofmann, AI Transformation Partner at Elixxir; Henrik Ceder, Chief Digital Office at Norvestor; and Aztec's Director of Data, Will Relf.

Together they discuss:

- How evolving regulation can be translated into practical guardrails
- What an effective operating model for AI looks like
- How firms can address security, compliance and cost concerns
- Why strong data foundations and human judgement remain critical to AI adoption
- What differentiates the firms that have successfully embedded AI.
